

SYLLABUS

CATALOG DESCRIPTION

This course was designed by Phi Theta Kappa and has as its central focus the development of leadership skills. The course will offer a basic understanding of leadership and group dynamics to help students develop a personal philosophy of leadership and an awareness of the moral and ethical responsibilities of leadership. Readings from the disciplines of humanities as well as business management are required to provide an interdisciplinary perspective of leadership. Students will engage in a variety of experiential learning activities designed to develop leadership skills.
